

As an advocate of New Jersey's Do Not Call law, I urge the FCC not to overturn, amend, or otherwise change this important law. Life is peaceful when I get home from work now. There are no more annoying calls from telemarketers when I'm trying to prepare for, eat, or clean up dinner and I'd like for it to stay that way. Sprint does not need to call me to tell me about a great new whatever they're offering me. Verizon does not need to call me to inform me that DSL is now available in my area. XYZ charity does not need to call me to try to guilt me into making a contribution to their organization while I'm partaking of my steak and salad or getting the kids ready for bed. NOBODY wants telemarketers to call them, that's why New Jersey passed a DO NOT CALL law that exceeds the federal law. PLEASE leave it alone. Thank you.
